LISTENING DESCRIPTION -- 480

In face-to face communications, a person at this level should be able to understand...

- the essentials of all speech;
- most professionally related topics;
- technical subjects;
- general topics and areas of special interest.

In addition, a person at this level should also be able to understand with facility...

- the essentials of conversation between native speakers;
- messages communicated through broadcast media; and
- public addresses.

READING DESCRIPTION -- 405

A person at this level should be able to...

- read most factual material of a non-technical nature;
- be much more proficient at reading materials on a familiar topic.
- separate the main ideas and details, from the lesser ideas;
- use that distinction to improve understanding;
- get a general sense of both the main and subsidiary ideas of most material;
- read and understand standard reports, training manuals and technical manuals.

When reading unfamiliar material, a person at this level...

- is able to use context and real-world knowledge to make sensible assumptions related to its meaning.
- may read relatively slowly and will not be able to discern nuance, or intentionally disguised meanings.
